Helping Your Child Grow

What Ages & Stages and Teaching Strategies mean for your family

Dear Families,

As part of our program, we use two friendly tools to help every child thrive. Neither is a test, and neither means anything is wrong - we use them for every child. Here is a quick look at what they are and why.

Ages & Stages (ASQ)

A short check-in on how your child is growing and developing for their age. You fill out the questionnaire, because you know your child best, and your child's teacher scores it. It looks at everyday things like:

- Communication - talking and understanding
- Movement - both big movements and small hand skills
- Problem solving - learning, playing, and figuring things out
- Getting along with others - social and self-help skills

It helps us notice early if your child could use a little extra support in any area, so we can be there for them right away.

Ages & Stages: Social-Emotional (ASE)

A companion check-in to the ASQ (we often just say 'ASE') focused on your child's social and emotional growth - managing big feelings, getting along with others, and building confidence. Like the ASQ, you fill out the questionnaire and the teacher scores it, it is not a test, and we use it for every child.

Teaching Strategies

This is how our teachers track your child's learning throughout the year, just by watching them during normal play. It is not a sit-down test. It helps us plan activities that fit your child and celebrate their progress.

Your part is simple

- Fill out the ASQ / ASE questionnaire - your answers make the picture complete.
- Sign the permission form so we can include your child.
- Sign the finished screening when your teacher brings it on the tablet.
- Ask us anything - we are always happy to talk it through.

Questions you might have

Is something wrong with my child?

No. This is not a test and it is not because of any concern. We do it for every child to make sure they are on track and getting what they need.

What happens with the information?

We use it to plan activities and support your child's learning. It stays private, and we will share updates with you along the way.

Thank you for partnering with us. Together we can give your child the best possible start.

- The Children of Promise Team